with gratitude for Deborah Harris's gifts to Lake Shore

Two weeks ago Lake Shore learned of Deborah Harris's generous gift to Lake Shore. "Overwhelming" seems too limited a word for her bequest of nearly $850,000 to the congregation she loved. For many of us, it has been difficult to get our mind around the extravagant portion of Deborah's estate that came to us after she died, especially knowing her deep dependence on God's provision of daily manna during the last years of her life.

Steve Fontaine, Deborah's attorney, encourages us to live in the awareness that without the generosity of Deborah's brother, Ron Harris, and sister, Ruth Ann Borrowman, there could possibly have been no gift to Lake Shore. He told us: "Ruth Ann and Ron wanted to honor Deborah and her intended gifts [to Lake Shore, Caritas, Talitha Koum, and Seeds] and to achieve that end, they signed a document that would send settlement proceeds to her estate, so that Deborah's gifts could be made. Without that act, there would be no gift to you."

When I talked with Ruth Ann last week to offer a small first expression of thanksgiving and to wonder aloud how else we could share the feelings of our grateful hearts, I told her that I had been hearing church members share memories in the past few days; each person had expressed something of Deborah's creativity, generosity, and kindness in the midst of struggles. The news that had come our way had prompted fresh stories, resurrected to new life, as though being told for the first time. "Oh, please send them to me when you hear them!" Ruth Ann told me. "We always lived so far from Debbie as adults that we didn't get to know her life in Waco very well. They would be such a gift!"

When she said the word "gift," something clicked inside me. A collection of Deborah stories would be a wonderful gift for Ron and Ruth Ann.

It seems a good thing to pause, before we make decisions about Deborah's bequest to Lake Shore, to gather our memories of her and to recognize the communion between brothers and sisters, between Ohio and Illinois and Texas, between the saints on earth and saints above. It seems a holy thing to hold our stories of Deborah as sacred and to honor her siblings by sharing our memories

For years to come, as we continue to benefit from her legacy, we will no doubt offer stories of Deborah's life and give thanks that her prayerful intentions were fulfilled. But in the early days as we try to absorb this blessing to our church, realizing at the same time that so much of it is beyond our rational understanding, may we pause and give thanks through our stories.

To share stories or memories, send them to sharlande@lsbcwaco.org by February 28. We will send them to her family. Let Sharlande know you would like to record a story.

Prayer of Installation and Dedication offered in worship on January 27 by Andy Powell, new deacon chair

Lord God, you are made known to us in new beginnings. in the joy of new life and in the promise of new journeys together.

We thank you for each of the countless moments in the past that have led to this moment and the beginning of this new year and this new journey together.

We thank you for each of these New Deacons, for their individual stories, for their unique talents and the energy that they will bring to our Church's Deacon Board.

We thank you also for those who have previously served as Deacons and are returning to our Deacon Board this year.

We give thanks for all of those who have gone before us and contributed to making this Church the loving and inclusive Body of Christ that it is today.

We ask that your Holy Spirit lead us, be among us, and inspire us to serve others and to do good work this year.

Help us, and each of us, to embody your mercy and reflect your lovingkindness to every other member of our church and to all those who are visitors in our midst.

Help us this year to engage each other person that we encounter as a cherished and important Child of God.

For that is what we are, we are each one of us a Child of God and a member of Christ's family by choice. Let our interactions with each other and with those who are in our midst be Christlike. Give us clarity of purpose, but fill us also with kindness and charity. Help us to be faithful and just, but also to be forgiving and gracious. Help our Deacons to fulfill their roles as both leaders and also as servants.

We give thanks for this Church that has always embraced change and new beginnings, a Church that has also worked hard at remaining faithful to Christ's example and teaching, a Church that continues to strive to be the Church that Love Built.

As we start this new journey together this year please continually remind us that what you ask of us is to act justly, to love mercy, and to walk humbly with you, this day and every day.

Amen.

Remembering Mary Oliver

Wednesday, February 6, 6:15

The mid-January death of beloved poet Mary Oliver prompted a great mourning of her loss in company with a fresh recognition of the joy and gratitude that saturates her poetry. As she wrote of her vocation: "My work is loving the world." A psalmist, she writes: "Lord God, mercy is in your hand,/pour me a little./ And tenderness too./My need is great . . ." She teaches us to pray: ". . . just pay attention, then patch/a few words together/and don't try to make them elaborate,/ this isn't a contest but the doorway into thanks,/and a silence in which another voice may speak."

This is an invitation to share the Mary Oliver poems that have blessed you "like fires for the cold, ropes let down to the lost, something as necessary as bread in pockets of the hungry." What poems have Brought you joy? Taught you to pay attention? Sent you out into the world to look? Called you to prayer?

We will turn the sanctuary into a dining room as we set up tables after the last "Amen." High chairs at the table, too!

Everyone bring a salad, a vegetable, or another side dish, or dessert — and meat dishes, too! Bring enough for your family and a little bit extra and a serving spoon, too.

The church will provide drinks. Crockpots welcome. Food in your cooler, too. Fridge space available during worship.
